Tranquil Eyes

“Film Star’s music is trippy in the best sense of the word. The songs on the Costa Mesa band's two CDs--including the excellent just-released "Tranquil Eyes"--probe psychedelic realms, but their spacey moods and astral concepts are anchored by earthy, garage-rock underpinnings and, on the new album, forthright emotion.”--LA Times

The band’s musical direction caters to an altered state of sound, with an unpredictability that has both its devoted fans and fresh ears floating to new heights. Various tracks last no longer than three minutes, which in many cases could leave listeners in anxious apprehension. The opposite is true for Film Star’s progression of songs. They are able to pack in just the right amount of neon colors, dips, guitar solos and tonal variations, all of which can be both seen and heard through the turning of tunes.

Members Piers Brown, Jamie Fletcher and Geoff Harrington have, in the best of terms, set themselves on a track of no return. Each song is crafted with both a sense of awareness and a freedom from pattern, making it hard to pull away from their spine-shivery pleasures. Proving to defy all signs of monotony in movement, Tranquil Eyes is an album that breathes through and through, steadfast in concept but flexible in nature.
